

*Integrated program evaluation and design for the economic prosperity, environmental vitality,
and social equity of People and Planet.*

1644 SE 40th Ave.
Portland, OR 97214

www.re-generar.org
bruce@re-generar.org
(503) 890 - 5871

February 14, 2018

Leah Gagliano, Executive Director
On-the-Move Community Integration
4187 SE Division Street
Portland, OR 97202

Subject: Program Evaluation

Dear Leah,

After careful and thoughtful consideration I have decided to launch, Re-Generar, a nonprofit organization that has been “sitting on the shelf” for a few years. We received our 501(c)(3) letter in the fall of 2014 (attached). The organization was to remain inactive until my graduate studies were completed. That is now the case.

Re-Generar can be defined as follows,

Re-Generar is a Portland-based, 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization offering integrated program evaluation and program design services. Our mission is to promote sustainable development by supporting on-the-ground, local organizations that work for social justice, economic equity, and environmental health. We define sustainable development as transformations that are crafted to maximize human well-being and minimize planetary harm. We fully support the United Nations Millennium Development Goals. For social justice reasons we use open-source, Linux-based software for all document production and analytical tasks. By providing program evaluation and program design services directly to on-the-ground service provider organizations, we hope to help them have an even larger sustainable development impact at local and regional levels.

As you might imagine, there are lots of reasons why engaging in program evaluation can be useful to an organization (e.g., to report to a funding agency, to improve outcomes or impact, to change program design or operations, to plan future programs, to get additional funding, etc.). There are also many approaches to program evaluation that are constructed from ranges of various assessment tools (formative to summative assessment tools, ongoing to one-shot assessment tools, objective observer to participatory assessment tools, goal-oriented to “goal-free” assessment tools, etc.).

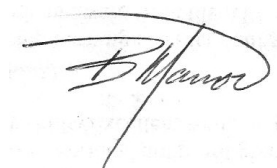

I believe that On-The-Move (OTM) would benefit from program evaluation; not simply as a “one-off” event, but as an integrated process that can help build a learning organization. A learning organization is one that continually expands its capacity to create its own future.¹ In a learning organization, staff and participants systematically collect data to learn what is working and what is not with the goal of improving programs and services.^{2,3} The process of integrating program evaluation into the organization's workflow is called evaluation capacity building (ECB). ECB increases stakeholder understanding of evaluation by building an evaluation-conscious culture. Building ECB is a key step in building a learning organization. Ultimately, "evaluation is the tool that enables nonprofit organizations to define success and measure results in order to create lasting change."⁴

¹Peter M Senge. The fifth discipline : the art and practice of the learning organization. English. New York: Doubleday/Currency, 2006.

If this sounds interesting let's chat! We can work together to help OTM develop useful processes and sound analytics that not only are foundational to a learning organization, but also would provide evidence-based evaluation of program worth to your board of directors, to government agencies, to current and future clients, and to current and future funders.

en paz,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "B. Marron", with a large, sweeping flourish extending from the end of the signature.

Bruce D. Marron, M.S.
Executive Director, Re-Generar
Member, American Evaluation Association

encl: Re-Generar 501(c)(3) letter

²J McLaughlin and G Jordan. "Planning and Designing Useful Evaluations". In: Handbook of practical program evaluation. Ed. by Kathryn E. Newcomer, Harry P. Hatry, and Joseph S. Wholey. Fourth edition. Essential texts for nonprofit and public leadership and management. San Francisco: Jossey-Bass & Pfeiffer Imprints, Wiley, 2015.

³Susan N. Labin. "Developing common measures in evaluation capacity building: An iterative science and practice process". In: American journal of evaluation 35.1 (2014), pp. 107–115.

⁴Johanna Morariu et al. State of Evaluation 2016: Evaluation Practice and Capacity in the Nonprofit Sector. SOE2016. Innovation Network, Oct. 2016.

INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE
P. O. BOX 2508
CINCINNATI, OH 45201

DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY

Date: OCT 06 2014

RE-GENERAR
1644 SE 40TH AVE
PORTLAND, OR 97214

Employer Identification Number:

46-3579136

DLN:

17053141357014

Contact Person:

MS. LEE

ID# 31208

Contact Telephone Number:

(877) 829-5500

Accounting Period Ending:

December 31

Public Charity Status:

170(b)(1)(A)(vi)

Form 990 Required:

Yes

Effective Date of Exemption:

September 9, 2013

Contribution Deductibility:

Yes

Addendum Applies:

No

Page 3 of 3

Dear Applicant:

We are pleased to inform you that upon review of your application for tax exempt status we have determined that you are exempt from Federal income tax under section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code. Contributions to you are deductible under section 170 of the Code. You are also qualified to receive tax deductible bequests, devises, transfers or gifts under section 2055, 2106 or 2522 of the Code. Because this letter could help resolve any questions regarding your exempt status, you should keep it in your permanent records.

Organizations exempt under section 501(c)(3) of the Code are further classified as either public charities or private foundations. We determined that you are a public charity under the Code section(s) listed in the heading of this letter.

For important information about your responsibilities as a tax-exempt organization, go to www.irs.gov/charities. Enter "4221-PC" in the search bar to view Publication 4221-PC, Compliance Guide for 501(c)(3) Public Charities, which describes your recordkeeping, reporting, and disclosure requirements.

Sincerely,

Director, Exempt Organizations

Letter 947